

THE SENTINEL

early morning sun
lake waters glisten
reflect in patches of thin ice
bare tree ...
guards the shore
branches surreptitiously reach as if to hug the lake ...
ground laced by early snow
a lone fisherman
leisurely bides his time
perhaps, perhaps ...
one last catch
before the lake solidifies

Stella Mazur Preda
Ontario, Canada